

Technical Writer for Tokenomics and Currency Design

Your experience / skills:

- Technical Degree in Information Technology or University Degree (BA/BS) in English, Journalism, Engineering, Technical Writing, Business Administration or equivalent
- Native English speaker or highly proficient use of the English language (C2)
- At least 2-3 years of experience in Technical Writing, Blogging or Online Publishing, preferred experience with writing technical or economic white-papers
- Ability to understand software technology, in particular distributed ledger technology (blockchain) and/or fintech software
- Good knowledge of economic processes and the ability to understand innovative currency or token designs
- You must be a fast learner and flexible in your thinking!
- Ability to communicate with specialists from different industries and different cultural backgrounds (we are a distributed team and most communication is being performed online)
- Samples of your work are highly welcome

Your tasks:

- Understand the client's vision based on the client's notes, interviews and short online meetings with the client
- Perform research regarding the respective topics
- Develop white papers in teamwork for the client, some of the papers are a prerequisite to an ICO
- Having fun while working, but at the same time representing yourself and our team in a highly professional way
- Editing, clarifying and improving the written text of the team members, who are not native English Speakers
- Collaborating with Engineers, Startups (Fintech), Developers and UX Designers

We are mainly looking for a long-term freelance partnership. The remuneration may differ from project to project. Generally, our projects are paid task oriented and at a highly competitive level. We are looking for a freelancer how is flexible and available. Someone with personability who is willing to work on demand in a long-term partnership. .

If you can offer what we are looking for and we also click on a personal level we will welcome you to join our startup cooby tec as a cofounder <https://www.cofoundme.org/project/9967>.

More generally speaking we are looking for the following skills in order to expand our team at cooby tec:

- Copywriting and blog writing experience
- Promote our product by writing compelling blogs
- Reviewing of website content
- Knowledge of various social media platforms
- Ability to develop Tweets from content and infographics is a huge plus

For any question send email: <https://moneygrid.net/contactus>